

March 2022

THE CITL REPORT

A newsletter of pedagogy, technology, and current trends in instructional design

FACULTY EXCELLENCE AWARDS

Nominations are now open for the Center for Innovation in Teaching and Learning Faculty Excellence Awards. This is your opportunity to highlight a colleague's course or one of your own courses that stands out for its engaging content, effective assessments, and innovation in design and layout. Fill out the nomination form and submit your course for the Faculty Excellence in Course Design Award!

Or maybe you know an educator that excels in the online environment? Whose course includes innovative technology, engaging online content, and creates an online environment where students feel challenged and inspired? Nominate them for the Faculty Excellence in Online Teaching Award.

Nominate

CITL March Workshops

- iLearn Quizzes Part 2
March 8 @ 11 AM
- Meet the CITL Instructional Design Team
March 22 @ 11 AM
- Qualtrics
March 29 @ 11 AM

Register

Small Group Instructional Diagnostic

There are still a few spots left for booking a small group instructional diagnostic for your course. SGIDs provide mid-semester feedback and an opportunity to improve your course before the end of the semester.

Book Now

MEET OUR NEW INSTRUCTIONAL DESIGNER

Heather Rippetoe, M.A.

Heather is a Cookeville native and a Tennessee Tech alumnus. Prior to joining the CITL, Heather taught English at Tennessee Tech, MTSU, and Nashville State Community College. She has worked with faculty course developers at Vanderbilt University (MA, Religion, 2009), Dyersburg State Community College, and Nashville State Community College. Heather is currently working on her Ed.D. in Instructional Design and Technology at the University of Memphis. Her favorite role is being an aunt to her five nieces and nephews. Join us for our Meet & Greet Session on March 22nd to learn more!

Register